Lemon Grove couple feted on 70th anniversary

The bride and groom sat side by side, holding hands--she, dressed in her bridal gown, and he, dapper in a suit with a special wedding tie. Friends, family and the occasional grandchild approached the couple to congratulate them on their 70th Wedding Anniversary.

Three score and ten years ago, on August 6, Zetta Viola Silvis and William T. Lindsay were married in the Lemon Grove First Congregational Church, by the Reverend Clifford Nott Hand, a professor at Whittier College. Hand had been the pastor during the time Viola and Bill had been very active in the First Congregational Church, and incidentally, the Scoutmaster of the Troop Bill had joined in 1912.

Viola had arrived in Lemon Grove in 1904 when her father, Frank D. Silvis moved the family here from Richfield, Kansas. Bill first came to Lemon Grove in 1907 on a visit from Lakewood, New Jersey. His family was so impressed with Lemon Grove during their visit, that, after settling their affairs in New Jersey, the family moved here.

With both families interested in the church, Viola and Bill became friends, and this developed into love through elementary and high school. This last was very important as they had to travel daily to San Diego to Russ High School, the only one in the south area of San Diego County. Somehow, they managed to sit together during the long ride.

There were only three or four cars in Lemon Grove, so the "Merry Oldsmobile" plan was out, but the Silvis family's one horse buggy served very well on a Sunday afternoon drive (the horse did his part to help with the courtship by making use of the reins unnecessary).

In 1916, after serving as a lemon picker and working in the lemon packing houses, Bill went back east to attend college and for the next four years, Uncle Sam helped with the courtship by weekly delivering a letter or post between Lemon Grove and Newark. He even went so far as to deliver Bill's proposal and Viola's "yes!" Then, to complete the job, on Valentine's Day 1920, when Viola picked up the family's mail at the post office (Sonka's Store--no mail delivery in those days) she was handed a red, heart-shaped box, covered by rather heavy insurance. The box of chocolates held a surprise-- the center piece of chocolate had been removed and replaced with a small box containing a diamond engagement ring.

The wedding night arrived, as did the bride and groom, their families, plus most of the population of the town (some 450 people at that time). The local newspaper, the "San Diego Sun" ran a story on their wedding titled, "Lemon Grove Girl Bride of Newark Man." Following the reception at the Silvis home, the happy couple were driven to the Old Santa Fe Depot, where they caught the "Owl Train" to Los Angeles. There they would board the morning train to their east coast destination (nine miles from the Atlantic Ocean) so Bill could report for his position as a design engineer with the General Electric Company.

As the newlyweds were disembarking from the train in Los Angeles, they saw Reverend Hand getting off the other end of the car. They asked him what he

LG/SV 9 - 11 year-old Bobby Sox Allstars advance to Nationals

The Lemon Grove/Spring Valley 9-11 year-old Bobby Sox All Stars brought home the District 46 Tournament title by winning all four of their games in Yuma, Arizona, last week.

The Bobby Sox division champs beat the host Yuma "A Team" Hotshots twice; 12-1 in the Friday night game and 9-5 in the finals. Lemon Grove/Spring Valley beat Oceanside 12-2 and the South Yuma "B Team" 24-2 in the contests.

Tournament MVP Jamie Wilson led the way by pitching both victories over the Yuma Hotshots. She threw a no-hitter in the first game and a 1-hitter in the final game. Jamie also had 6 hits in 10 official at bats and knocked in 11 runs for the winners.

Other hitting stars were Melissa Butts, with 7 hits in 10 at bats; Brandy Emberton, who had 4 hits in 6 at bats; Carlee Ledford, who had 5; and Nicole Peralta, with 4 hits. Every girl on the team got at least one hit in the Tournament of Champions and the team outscored their opponents 57-12.

On opening night, Lemon Grove/Spring Valley beat Yuma "A Team" Hotshots 12-1. Jamie Wilson struck out 8, walked 5, and allowed no hits. Nicole Peralta was 3 for 3, Carlee Ledford and Melissa Butts had 2 hits a piece.

In the second game, Lemon

Grove/Spring Valley against Oceanside, Julie Wendell was called on to pitch in the first inning with the bases loaded, 2 runs in and only 1 out. She got out of the inning with a strike out and a pop-up to the first baseman. Julie Struck out 5 and didn't allow a walk or a hit the rest of the way as Lemon Grove/Spring Valley scored 12 runs en route to the win.

Heather Sergeant tossed a 5 hitter Monday night against Yuma "B Team" and Lemon Grove/Spring Valley scored 18 runs in the third inning to this game away.

The Championship game saw Lemon Grove/Spring Valley facing the Yuma "A Team" Hotshots again. Lemon Grove/Spring Valley "ace" Jamie Wilson got the call to pitch and responded by tossing a 1 hitter and striking out 6 on the way to a 9-5 victory.

Yuma had a 5-4 lead after 1

1/2 innings but the Lemon Grove/Spring Valley All Stars came back behind a pair of doubles from Nicole Peralta and Melissa Butts and a game winning RBI single by Brandy Emberton.

The Lemon Grove/Spring Valley All Stars now advance to a 48 team National Tournament in San Clemente August 16-21, 1990. This is the first time a team from the Lemon Grove/Spring Valley league has made it to the biggest tournament in the nation.

Congratulations to: Melissa Butts, Toni DeMaria, Brandy Emberton, Diana Julian, Nicole Geis, Kate Ledbetter, Carlee Ledford, Nicole Peralta, Heather Sergeant, Lucy Verduzco, Julie Wendell, Jamie Wilson and also to the All Star Staff Manager Kim Ledford, Coach Tim Smith and Coach Darryl Ledford.

Lemon Grove and Spring Valley are proud of you.

was doing there, and he said he was heading back to his college in Whittier. The Lindsays informed him that they were on the first step of their honeymoon. "Oh my gosh," said the Reverend, "I've married dozens of couples, but this is the first time I've ever gone on their honeymoon with them."

On the second or third day of the trip, the young couple made a commitment to each other that they would always aim to get back to Lemon Grove as their home. This commitment had a great effect on their life, especially Bill's jobs. No new job opportunities would be considered unless it pointed towards their dreams.

They stuck to their goal moving steadily westward from Newark to Chicago to San Francisco until Bill left General Electric. In 1928, he served as a Professional Scout Executive in Petaluma, Ca and Los Angeles. He left the Boy Scouts in 1971 and the couple retired to Lemon Grove, thus reaching their goal.

When the couple was asked what contributed to their long and successful marriage, they included good moral training by their parents in Christian homes, active church participation and the acceptance and application of the following: love, faith (particularly in God) hope, patience, service to others and a sense of humor.

The Lindsays would like to express their appreciation to the many folks who contributed to the success of their 70th Wedding Anniversary Celebration on Saturday at the Monte Vista Lodge in Lemon Grove, where the couple has lived for the past three years. Special thanks go to their daughter, Elizabeth and her husband; their son Andy; Mrs. Violet Hertzberg, Administrator of Monte Vista Lodge and its fine staff; their friend Dorris; Viola's niece, Mrs. Linda Maisch and her husband William Maisch of Ramona for their superb rendition of the "Anniversary Waltz" with a vocal duet; and a delightful duet by the Maisch's daughter Rebecca and her husband Wayne Young singing a song written and composed by the Young's with the help of Trevor Warren. Cord Kessel added much enjoyment with a medley of appropriate old-time songs on the organ. Granddaughter Carol Stewart of Fort Worth took care of the guest book, niece Eleanor Denlinger of Lemon Grove and "adopted" daughter Inez Edgerton of La Mesa presided over the refreshments.

Ford dealers sponsoring free Chargers Family Day

When was the last time you came to San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium and found free parking and free admission? That's right...Chargers Family Day. And it's back.

San Diegans can get their first glimpse of the 1990 San Diego Chargers along with a sneak preview of the "Charger Girls," the team's new cheerleading dance squad, Sunday, August 5 at the Stadium when the San Diego County Ford Dealers present the Chargers' third-annual Family Day. And it's all free beginning at 2 p.m. when fans are invited down onto the field to get a close-up view of the team and the cheerleaders.

The "Charger Girls" kick off the festivities with their first public performance. The football team will follow with introductions and a team workout. The players, coaches and cheerleaders will be available for autographs and pictures following the practice. Family Day will conclude with an exciting video preview of the 1990 Chargers and look back at the 1989 season.

This fun-filled day offers San Diegans their first chance to see the Chargers in uniform on the field. Get autographs and have your picture taken with Billy Ray Smith, Anthony Miller, Marion Butts, Billy Joe Tolliver, Burt Grossman and the rest of the team.

In addition, the first 5,000 youngsters 14-and-under will receive a free Oscar Mayer hot dog and Coca Cola soft drink.

Fans also can select from the best season seats available for 1990 by choosing from more than 3,000 prime seats marked especially for the day.

Everyone in attendance will receive a special "Family Day Edition" of the Chargers' Powerline Magazine complete with a team roster and full page for autographs.

Model search at Grossmont Center

Grossmont Center and Facefinders Model Search Network will be looking for the greatest faces in Southern California to enter a nationwide model search. The Facefinders Scouting Network, in existence since 1983, is used as a primary source of new talent by more than 25 of the world's leading modeling agencies casting offices. Facefinders will conduct its search for the first time in San Diego beginning with their "kick off" fashion show in Grossmont Center's Broadway Court on Saturday August 11th, at 2:00 p.m.

Anyone, 13 or over, can enter Facefinders preliminary competitions, at no cost by submitting a photo with an entry form which will be available beginning August 11th and until September 9th at Grossmont Center's information Booth, all participating Grossmont Center Stores and each preliminary competition at Grossmont Center.

The competition is also open to children beginning at the age of four. The children's division is subdivided into Baby Faces (ages 4-8) and Future Faces (ages 9-12). Baby Face and Future Face winners will receive awards, agent recognition and the opportunity to attend the October expo.

Entrants will be selected to appear in one of the preliminary competitions on August 29th, September 5th and September 12th, 1990. Finalists from the preliminaries will compete in a fashion show at Grossmont Center on September 22nd.

Judges will select two winners, one male and one female, to go on to the Facefinders World Class Model and Talent Search Expo in Palm Springs, October, 1990. Each winner will receive a scholarship valued at over $2,000 which will include all exhibition

Lemon Grove landmark comes down

A sign that has long been a landmark in Lemon Grove was given a grand send-off on Thursday, July 26.

Long-time patrons of Dirk's Horseshoe Lounge gathered to say good-bye to the old horseshoe sign which had hung over the popular local watering hole at 7664 Broadway for more than 25 years.

The owner of Dirk's Horseshoe Lounge, Dirk Westerhout, said the sign may have to come down, but it won't be forgotten. "We'll mount the old sign somewhere--maybe on an inside wall--we won't get rid of the landmark."

The sign's removal was part of the City of Lemon Grove's redevelopment efforts and new sign ordinance.

A new sign, that is in keeping with the City's sign ordinance, was proudly unveiled by Westerhout and his companion Terry Larson. The couple christened the sign with champagne and promised that the good times would continue at the Horseshoe Lounge under the new sign. Friends and customers toasted the new sign and enjoyed a "sing-along" and complimentary food and drinks following the unveiling ceremony.

Commentary

by Paul Treske

Sports will probably find their way into this column only on rare occasions, but the departure of Joan Kroc from the San Diego sports scene impels some remembrance.

Certainly the 15-year "Kroc era" with the Padres was filled with glories and blunders in relatively equal number, but the figure of Joan Kroc stands high above it all as a landmark of some of the good things that represent San Diego.

For those die-hard baseball fans who still remember the early, pre-Kroc Padre days, the arrival of Ray Kroc was an energizing of mammoth proportions. A feeble, laughable, rag-tag little ball club, ignored by both the fans and its own management was on the block, ready for transit to Washington. Who cared? Lots of us did! As we sat in the semi-deserted ballpark, watching another string of sad losses, we dreamed of a day in some fantastic future, when the Padres would actually win a National League Pennant.

Ray Kroc saved the team for San Diego and, on an unforgettably glorious day in October of 1984, the dream came true. Sadly, Ray Kroc was no longer with us to savor the moment, but Joan was. Reluctantly, but loyally taking up the reins, she told everyone that the Champion Padres would always belong to San Diego.

Those were wondrously heady days in San Diego

and its environs. Business buildings everywhere showed huge banner signs cheering the Padres on. Radio and television spoke and sang of nothing else, and the cheers from the stadium rocked the coves of La Jolla and echoed in the hills of Alpine. And Joan Kroc, gracious, warm and loving stood at the center, an unforgettable figure in a Padre uniform, pointing first at the initials R.A.K. on her sleeve and then upward.

The Kroc era is over now and a new ownership begun. Along with the Padre's rise and eventual pennant, there have been the blunders. The Chub Feeneys and bumbling sons-in-law have been matched by poor trades and public ineptitude. But through it all, Joan Kroc never lost her class. She was never comfortable as one of that "brotherhood" of big league owners. In an era when too many cities have been saddled with the likes of George Steinbrenner, Charles Finley and Donald Sterling, Joan Kroc stood as a civic figure of heroic proportions. Her charitable responses to crisis and disaster are well documented and her willingness to take civic responsibility has lifted her far above the usual sports franchise owner.

So, we, along with all the other Padre fans, wish you farewell and good luck! We hope you won't leave our area altogether. San Diego still needs your love.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

By learning to drive my dad's car, by necessity, at the ripe old age of 14, I acquired that "irresistible urge" to have my very own vehicle.

Dad would let me sit in his lap and steer his old car. Later he let me take over the controls by sitting on a pillow to reach the pedals. The old Wold-Chamberlin Airport on the outskirts of Minneapolis had a racetrack running around inside the runways. What a wonderful place to learn to drive! I can still see those Ford Tri-Motors of Northwest Airlines skimming over the top of us.

Because my father had an unexpected stay in the hospital and my mother didn't know how to drive, I was elected to be her chauffeur. Without a license or permit I drove that Dodge 29 "Victory 6" like Danny Sullivan.

Dad recovered, but I didn't. I now had "Car Fever." All I could dream of was my own set of wheels as my old bike was now just kid stuff.

When the local Long Lake Telephone Company sold out to the Bell System all the old crank-type wooden wall phones (2 shorts and a long) were out, along with the company's one and only Model T pick-me-up truck. After my continuous begging, Dad bought the truck and towed it home for me.

A Bell Reject

"Here it is, Frankie, make it run and it's yours," was his only requisite.

With much joy and enthusiasm I worked on that old junker every waking hour that whole summer, but to no avail. Without money for parts it was the "old trial and error" method. I would take a piece of the motor off, clean it, adjust it and put it back on.

Nearly every night, as soon as my father drove in the driveway, I would plead for him to pull me around the block to try and start my jalopy. Each time I prayed that the problem of starting was solved but the rear wheels would always lock and skid along the gravel road.

So the next day it was "back to the drawing board" and more tinkering. The engines were so simple on those models, no starter, no generator, just a 4 cylinder motor without the sophisticated accessories like the automobiles of today. Cranking that old, stiff engine by hand was such a chore and sometimes could backfire to break an arm.

After that summer wasted working in vain on that "Bell Beauty" I traded my bicycle and $15 for a 1924 Ford Model T that ran like a cougar. It all went to prove how much perseverance I had, but raised doubts as to my mechanical smarts.

It's The Law

by Edward V. Brennan, Attorney at Law

Question: I have some significant assets. I have remarried, but I have children from my former marriage. What kind of estate planning is best for me?

Answer: Exceptional sensitivity is required when estate planning involves a couple, one or both of whom have children from a former marriage.

The couple often has a deep commitment to each other and a deep concern for the financial well-being of the other upon the death of one. They are also aware and perhaps in favor of a possible remarriage by the surviving spouse. There is, consequently, a very realistic concern about not causing an inadvertent disinheritance of the children of the first spouse to die.

The assets are typically a cloudy mixture of community property and separate property, often including retirement plans, IRA's, business interests, and/or investment real property and a current home.

A property agreement is the essential first step in the estate planning process. The couple must agree upon what is the separate property of whom, what is community property and how each asset is to be treated. Clients should understand that conflict of interest rules will require either separate counsel for each spouse or a clear waiver of the estate planning attorneys' conflict of interest. The need for open and sensitive discussion of these issues between husband and wife is extremely important.

The couple should also consider a qualified terminable interest property trust ("QTIP Trust"). This type of trust is eligible for the estate tax marital deduction so that no estate tax need be paid when the first spouse dies. The QTIP trust provides income to the surviving spouse for life. All or part of what is left in the trust when the surviving spouse dies can be distributed to children by the first decedent's earlier marriage. The disadvantage to a QTIP trust is that it places these children in the position of waiting for a step-parent to die before receiving their beneficial interest. The QTIP trust defers the children's economic benefits until after the death of the surviving spouse.

Couples who anticipate that a deferral of the children's benefits may cause discomfort can provide other financial benefits for the children immediately upon the death of the first spouse. To accomplish this, each spouse may plan for a distribution of certain assets and/or selected life insurance benefits immediately upon the first death. The plan can allow up to $60,000 in benefits to pass outside of the QTIP trust to such children estate tax free. The tax benefits and security of the QTIP trust can still be available to the surviving spouse.

Seat belts again prove worth

Last November Franklin Cibula, a Sacramento businessman, fell asleep at the wheel on the road to South Lake Tahoe. His car plunged off Echo Summit, rolled over several times and came to rest after a vertical drop of more than 1,000 feet.

He survived.

Two weeks later another Sacramento driver wasn't so fortunate. She failed to negotiate a slight curve, went off the road and down a gentle embankment, and hit a post. The car bounced but did not roll over. The driver was thrown from the driver's seat, out the rear window--and killed.

Franklin Cibula lived because he was wearing a safety belt. The other driver died because her safety belt was unbuckled. In January, a pickup with two occupants ran off Highway 70 in the Feather River Canyon. The vehicle flew in the air 180 feet, then tumbled another 320 feet before it stopped. The driver was thrown out and killed. The passenger stayed in the vehicle and lived. The passenger was buckled up. The driver was not.

Whenever a California Highway Patrol (CHP) officer responds to a fatal traffic accident, the officer includes in the accident report whether the persons killed were buckled up. Last year 78 percent of the traffic fatalities reported by the CHP died with their belts off.

Damn the cost, full speed for expansion

There's no getting around it. Expansion in both the National Football League and major league baseball is roaring down the tracks into reality.

The cost figures to be prohibitive, but there seems no limit to the number of civic-oriented, megabuck-blessed, "sportin' folks" willing to unlock the family coffers and buy a piece of eternal youth. Within reason, of course.

The "suggested" going price for an expansion NFL franchise is something in the neighborhood of $100 million. That's a very nice neighborhood. So nice, in fact, that baseball bigwigs are thinking of a similar franchise fee for their expansion program.

The list of cities reportedly interested in gaining a pro football franchise includes a trio of municipalities already jilted by the NFL. Civic pride cries for a macho NFL ride from sportin' interests in Jacksonville, Florida; Charlotte, North Carolina; and Memphis, Tennessee. Also on the list, towns that carpetbagging clubs have previously dumped, are Baltimore, St. Louis and Oakland.

Al Davis has taught professional football aficionados that cities do not own NFL franchises. Only NFL franchise owners do.

And when an NFL franchise owner sees greener gridiron returns in another pasture, he is as likely as not to move his herd.

Things are not quite that cut and dried in major league baseball. Franchise owners can still move, but it takes a bit of doing. (For a quick reference, see the movie "Major Leagues.")

Baseball is committed to expanding by a pair of teams by 1993, one team for the Western Division, the other for the East.

Unfortunately, the pickings in the west are minimal. Front runners Denver and Phoenix both lack financial and raw population strength. Both would need domed stadiums because of weather.

Tampa-St. Petersburg and Buffalo both have ample financial strength and the required population base. Tampa-St. Pete has a covered play yard and looks like a shoo in for a franchise.

Buffalo has a nifty minor league park and plans to expand it to minimal major league size. Unfortunately, even expanded, Pilot Field would only rival Boston's Fenway Park and Chicago's Wrigley Field. Both are considered woefully inadequate.

There are no plans for a covered playing field in Buffalo and for a franchise hopeful, that's almost criminally stupid.

Summer's heat, humidity and thundering rains, coupled with April snows and numbing cold keeps Buffalo out of the contender's corner. Major league owners don't want to take a chance on an injury to a megabuck athlete because of April's ice and snow or summer's 90 percent humidity and 90 degrees heat at 9 p.m.

Chicago Cub superscout Hugh Alexander got to talking about the expansion while checking trade prospects at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium during the last homestand. All scouts love to start rumors and this time Alexander came up with a dandy.

"Expand to Buffalo and Tampa-St. Pete and add them and Atlanta to the Eastern Division. Then move Chicago and St. Louis to the Western Division," he said. "That's a major league rumor."

Two days later his rumor was reported as a consideration under review by baseball's expansion braintrust by a Chicago newspaper columnist. That's fast, even for a Chicago rumor.

Now, if Buffalo can just come up with a cover story....

Lamplighters begins season with "Fatal Attraction"

The West Coast Premiere of "Fatal Attraction", (not the movie plot), will be presented by the Lamplighters Community Theatre, at the Ben Polak Fine Arts Center, 8053 University Avenue, La Mesa (next to the Library) from August 10th thru September 16th.

This "Fatal Attraction," a play by Bernard Slade, is adult fare and shares only its title with the movie. Slade takes the audience through a surprising series of plot twists in this mystery-thriller when Blair Griffen, a fragile movie star trying to hold on to her career, becomes involved in a bizarre series of events.

Set on isolated Nantucket Island, the play deals with several friends of Blair who present a potential threat to her life.

The plotters have not counted on having to deal with detective Lt. Gus Braden, however, as he tries to sort out the baffling events without being drawn into their tangled web.

Directed by Kelly Rae Hero and produced by Carol E. Brown, the cast includes Susan Brennan, Michael Dominguez, Wayne Erreca, Forest Lundberg, Teri Orr, and Valerie Tetrault.

The Lamplighters will present "Fatal Attraction" at 8:00 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays August 10, 11, 17, 18, 24, 25, and 31, September 1, 7, 8, 14 and 15, and on Thursday August 30th. Sunday matinees will be performed at 2:00 p.m. on August 12, 19, 26, September 9th and closing September 16th.

Tickets are $7 for adults; $6 for senior citizens, students and active duty military.

"Fatal Attraction" is the first in a four play season series to be presented by Lamplighters, with four plays being offered for the price of three. For further information and reservations, phone the Box Office at 464-4598.

Forest Lundberg, as Tony, and Susan Brennan, as Blair, in Lamplighters' "Fatal Attraction."

Clowns, jugglers and more . . . Make A Circus

A pair of clowns named The Ice Cubes (because they're so cool), a high-flying, wild-haired D.J. named Big Mouth and a varied and youthful cast of jugglers and acrobats hit La Mesa's La Mesita Park last week like a tornado! This highly talented group was the "Make-a-Circus" traveling troupe sponsored by ARCO and AM-PM Mini-marts.

On tour throughout California, these talented teens and young adults gave the crowd of over 250 children and adults a fast-paced, ever-changing show of dances, pratfalls, wonderfully-awful jokes and occasionally marvelous acrobatics that never flagged in its energy or enthusiasm.

Of equal pleasure to those attending were the free hot dogs and drinks provided by AM-PM and the equally free popcorn provided by the co-sponsoring La Mesa Parks and Recreation Department.

Make-a-Circus is an easy-going, fun-loving special activity for children; reminiscent of the traveling entertainment troupes of bygone days.

Join MADD in annual fund raiser

The seventh annual MADD Run/Walk, sponsored by San Diego Trust and Savings Bank, is open to all runners, walkers, and crawlers!

The Run will take place at the Pan Am Plaza area of Balboa Park on Saturday, August 11, at 7:30 a.m. The legendary Tot Trot, a special mini-run for children 5-years-old and under, will begin at 9:00 a.m.

Registered entrants, including tots and volunteers, receive a custom-designed MADD Run T-shirt. Pre-registration entry fees are: $13.00 for the 10K; $11.00-Fun Run/Walk, and $8.00 for ages 12 and under (10K or Fun Run/Walk). Entry fee for the Tot Trot is $5.00. After August 3rd, all entrants will be charged an additional $2.00. Awards will be presented to the top three finishers in each age division and a $200 cash award will be given to the first male and female finishers of the 10K Run.

Want to run for free and help MADD at the same time? This year, a Sponsorship/Pledge program is being offered to all Run/Walk entrants. If you collect $50 or more for MADD, you can participate in the Run/Walk for free and will receive a MADD sports bottle and gold pin. The individual who is the highest money raiser in the pledge program, wins a fabulous trip for two to Boston, sponsored by American Airlines and Balboa Travel.

This and many other prizes will be awarded in a free prize drawing held after the Run on Saturday, August 11th. All registered Run entrants are eligible to participate in the drawing, but you must be present to win. The MADD Run/Walk is the largest annual fund raiser for MADD San Diego County and provides Mothers Against Drunk Driving with essential financial support for its community awareness, victim advocacy, and educational programs.

To receive a Run application, or if you wish to volunteer at the Run, call MADD at 746-6233 or toll-free from San Diego 239-9366.

Run applications can also be obtained from any San Diego Trust & Savings bank location, from local sporting goods stores, or Breaking Forty Race Consultants, 272-8316.

Soroptimist Clubs raising funds for Youth Diversion Camp

Several San Diego area Soroptimist Clubs are putting their energies together this summer to sponsor a fund-raising dinner to benefit the San Diego County Sheriff's Youth Diversion Camp.

The "Evening in Santa Fe," a western style dinner-dance, will be held on Saturday, August 18, at the East County Performing Arts Center in El Cajon, from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Tickets are $15 per person. All proceeds will go to the Youth Diversion Camp.

Soroptimist International is a service organization of business and professional women. With chapters in 80 countries, it is the world's largest classified service club for women.

The dinner-dance is being sponsored by Soroptimist International of Valley de Oro, with assistance from Soroptimists of La Mesa, Chula Vista/Bonita and Santee.

The Youth Diversion Camp is a volunteer project conducted by San Diego County Sheriff's deputies, who volunteer their own time twice each year to run the three-day camp. The kids who participate range from 14-16 years of age, and represent first-time juvenile offenders.

The camp was started over 10 years ago by sheriff's deputies, and is supported totally by the annual Soroptimist fund raiser. According to Lieutenant Lynne Ziegler of the Sheriff's Department, the goal of the camp is to work with kids who are first-time offenders in an effort to divert them away from crime and into positive directions. The deputies work to instill pride and self-esteem among the teenagers, and try to point them toward a better way of life.

Attendees at this year's fund raiser will be treated to a delicious meal, and western dance instructions. Several merchants in the area also are donating gifts and prizes that will be raffled off at the dinner. For ticket information, call Galli Maslov of the La Mesa Soroptimist club at 562-5632 or 230-4422.

Home safety ideas offered

Fifty percent of all accidental deaths occurring each year involve people over age 65. Sixty-six percent of fatal accidents are due to falls or burns.

How can you make your home safer? Therapists from the Rehabilitation Center at Grossmont Hospital will supply the answers during a free presentation titled "Safety in the Home" at 7 p.m. August 16th.

For reservations or more information, call 589-4151.

Reconsidering college? Here's an opportunity for those who might not have planned to go

Starting in the Fall of 1990, Grossmont College will undertake a unique new program designed to help individuals who have not had an enjoyable experience in school.

Project Retain is aimed at individuals who chose not to continue their education, as well as under-represented students, who might not otherwise consider higher education. The intensive yearlong study program will help participants improve not only their reading and English abilities, but assist in developing better study habits and time management skills as well. To help incorporate them into the college environment, the students will participate in several classes, group workshops, and campus activities, in addition to receiving ongoing counseling. Every effort will be made to secure on-campus employment for those interested, in an effort to further integrate them into campus life. The free services available to the students also include career guidance, tutoring, job placement, and assistance in applying for financial aid.

The program will select 60 first-time college students. Applicants are already being screened and special orientation groups are scheduled during August to acquaint applicants and their families with the benefits of participating in Project Retain.

For more information, call 465-1700, ext. 648 and ask for Lynn Gardner.

"The Red Shoes" playing at ECPAC summer filmfest

The East County Performing Arts Center brings you the finest in classic musicals at budget prices for your summer entertainment dollar. Winding up this year's summer filmfest will be one of the finest of Hollywood gems from years-gone-by.

On Friday, August 3rd, at 7:30 p.m. where will be a screening of "The Red Shoes" (1951) Directed, written, and produced by the team of Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger. "The Red Shoes" won three Academy Awards and was heaped with public and critical praise. Probably the most renowned film ever to deal with classical ballet, it is also the film that brought International fame to ballerina Moira Shearer. Even after almost forty years, this film is still fresh and exciting.

To further your enjoyment, the East County Performing Arts Center brings you a vintage cartoon from the 1930's and 1940's. Tickets are $3.00.

Free canyoneer hike set

Kelly Ditch Trail, located in Cuyamaca State Park, will be the location of the next San Diego Natural History Museum Canyoneer hike scheduled for Saturday, August 4, from 8 a.m.-noon.

Hikers will walk under oaks, pine and fir on a beautiful forested trail that links Cuyamaca Lake with the Williams Heise County Park near Julian. The trail follows an old diversion channel built by Chinese and Russian laborers a century ago. Participants are encouraged to bring water and a lunch.

To get to Kelly Ditch Trail, take I-8 east to Hwy 79 north through Cuyamaca Rancho State Park to the north side of Cuyamaca Lake. Immediately after passing Engineer's Road, turn right into the dirt parking lot on the south side of the road. Allow 1 1/4 hours driving time from San Diego.

The walks are free and open to the public. For more information call 232-3821.

Young singles events

It looks like the Y.E.S. Group (Young Energetic Singles) at Foothills United Methodist Church is going to have fun in August. The group meets each Sunday at 6:30. Here are a couple of special events coming their way this month:

August 11, District Luau;

August 25, Bahia Belle Dinne and Dancing.

The church is located at 4031 Avocado Boulevard in La Mesa.

For further information about this fun group, please call Martha at the church office, 670-4009.

Military widows to picnic

The Inland San Diego County Chapter, Society of Military Widows, will have a picnic Saturday, August 11th at 10:30 in the morning.

The picnic will be at the Kennedy Park Center, 1675 East Madison, El Cajon. All Military Widows are invited to bring their favorite picnic dish to share, personal beverage, and service. Also, Military Widows are invited to bring any family members or friends if they wish.

Ms. Margaret McNeil will show her beautiful handbags made of either vinyl or cloth, with lots of zippers and pockets. Come and enjoy a real fun day! Further information may be obtained by calling 443-8804 or 465-2140.

Grossmont's "Think First" program makes kids think before risking injury

When Tim Boice advises school children to buckle their seat belts when riding in a car, they listen. They can relate to Tim when he tells about the automobile accident that left him paralyzed from the chest down at age 16.

Tim is part of Grossmont Rehabilitation Center's "Think First" program, which teaches school children to take safety precautions when riding in a car, swimming and diving, riding bicycles and participating in other sports.

During each "Think First" presentation, a disabled young person, along with a nurse, shows an educational film and talks with the youngsters about head and spinal cord injuries.

Grossmont is one of four training sites across the nation to be part of the National Head and Spinal Cord Injury Prevention Program, sponsored by the American Association of Neurological Surgeons.

Grossmont's educational program was formerly called "Feet First, First Time," and focused on preventing diving accidents. This summer, the name was changed to "Think First," which relates to a broader range of activities that can potentially cause debilitating accidents.

Traumatic brain injury is the leading killer and cause of disability in children and young adults in this country. About 2 million head injuries occur each year, while 10,000 people per year sustain spinal cord injuries.

In California, there are 34,000 injuries and 4,000 deaths a year involving brain injuries, and 2,000 injuries and 200 deaths involving spinal cord trauma.

Cancer support group changes meeting schedule at Grossmont

"Reaching Out," Grossmont Hospital's support group for cancer patients, their families and their friends, recently changed its meeting schedule.

Meetings now are held every Monday afternoon from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the conference room at Grossmont Home Health, located in the Fletcher Parkway Medical Center, 8881 Fletcher Parkway, La Mesa.

Meetings are free and reservations are not necessary. For information, the public can call Judi Snyder, LCSW, at 589-4439.
